FOREWORD

The 2016 edition of the Cambridge Business and Industrial Directory provides information on businesses located within the City. The types of businesses listed in this directory represent manufacturing, wholesaling, distribution and service firms. However in total, there are 10,925 businesses in Cambridge in the retail, manufacturing, service and other sectors.

The Directory is primarily designed to assist businesses to source products, materials and services in Cambridge. It is also used as a source of information by sales and marketing people, job seekers and other private/public groups assessing the business opportunities in Cambridge.

This Directory is available for viewing as a pdf, and also for customized searches on the City of Cambridge website at: www.cambridge.ca/busdirectory

The information in this directory has been updated on-line by the individual businesses and/or City of Cambridge Economic Development staff. We have attempted to ensure that information is as accurate as possible. However, we cannot guarantee the accuracy or completeness of the information provided.

If your Company is new to Cambridge, or if your manufacturing or service industry is not yet listed in this City Directory, please contact us with your company information, so we may add it to the Directory for the next printing.

MESSAGE FROM THE MAYOR OF CAMBRIDGE

Greetings:

Cambridge is on the “cusp” of major redevelopment in various parts of the city. Both private investment and city commitments are now being realized in such developments as the restoration of the Hespeler Core with the just completed streetscaping and new announcements waiting in the wings. Along with this is the activity in the Galt Core such as the World Gym formerly our old court house and the near completion of the second Waterscape Tower.

But, these are only a snapshot of what is happening. The Old Post Office is now being transformed into a digital library accompanied by a new parking lot occupying the old site across from the Post Office. Preliminary development plans dot the downtown and will soon be announced in the near year. In all, the “Back to the River” plans are seeing positive outcomes with the planning of a pedestrian bridge, new connecting pathways and the future plans for the expansion of the School of Architecture. In concert with these developments, there is certainly a renewed interest in all the downtowns of Cambridge. Yet, we are also seeing our Boxwood Business Park expand with prestigious aerospace enterprises such as Héroux-Devtek, Shimco and industrial service providers such as Cintas. With these prestigious developments also comes new employment which expands the overall workforce of the community and keeps our unemployment rate below both the provincial and national average.

In all, Cambridge is on the move, open for business and finally seeing the outcomes of city investment. From our business parks in the north down through our core areas in all the former areas, development is taking place and Cambridge is becoming for many a destination for both new residents and businesses in our community.

Mayor Doug Craig
