Travel Information

Arrive at the Port Canaveral Terminal as early as possible for faster check-in and boarding. (Between 10:00 am – 11:30 am is perfect). The later you arrive, the longer you will most likely have to wait in lines. You MUST BE ON BOARD by 2:30 pm. If you are flying into the Orlando Airport – your baggage pick up and shuttle ride can take up to 1 ½ hours. Please give yourself plenty of time to arrive and get to the ship. The Orlando Airport is approximately 45 miles from Port Canaveral. For your peace of mind – arriving the evening before is recommended.

Royal Caribbean Cruise Line Shuttles

Royal Caribbean offers a shuttle service from Orlando International to Port Canaveral. Book your shuttle service with CruiseOne prior to arrival. If you forget, shuttle services can normally be found in the Ground Transportation area of the airport – near the baggage area.

Parking at the Cruise Terminal can run up to $120.00. Here's a hint… if you are staying at a hotel in the Port Canaveral area, choose a hotel that has free shuttle service to the ship and FREE parking! Here is a list of several:

Radisson Resort at the Port

No other hotel in Port Canaveral is closer to Disney Cruise Lines, Carnival Cruise Lines, Royal Caribbean Cruise Lines or Casino Ships than the Radisson Resort at the Port. They offer two "Cruise Ship Getaway" packages, both of which include free parking during the duration of your cruise, in addition to a complimentary shuttle service to and from your cruise terminal and a breakfast buffet for two. The only difference between the two packages is the room. One package offers a "standard deluxe" room while the other offers a "two room whirlpool" suite.

If you are using a shuttle service on your return, be sure to pre-pay (if applicable) before you leave so your return trip is already set for you. Also, remember to take the phone number of your hotel and/or shuttle service with you so you can call immediately upon disembarkation for pick up.

Disembarking from the ship:

It is important for you to vacate your stateroom as soon as possible so they staff can prepare for the next cruise – leaving the very afternoon you arrive back home! (Isn't that amazing?) You will be assigned a staging area to wait (in the theatre, bar area, etc.)

You will be also be assigned a "zone" number for disembarking. It is done in an orderly manner! You have two choices.

Take your luggage yourself:

You may disembark early by taking your own luggage from the ship. Warning: this can be very strenuous while standing in long lines and pulling all of your luggage and carryon yourself. However, if you are traveling light…this is a great way to go.

Luggage Removal by the Ship:

If you choose to have your luggage removed by the ship's personnel – it must be packed, tagged and sitting outside your stateroom door before 10:00 pm the night before we dock in Port Canaveral. REMEMBER: to keep those items you will need the night before (pj's, toiletries, medicine, change of clothes) and a small carry-off bag.

Once you exit the ship – the port staff will direct you to the luggage area for your retrieval. They do have porters to help you if you need assistance. Don't forget to tip them!
